Colville Tribes plans needs-based grants

NESPELEM – As part of an ongoing effort to protect the membership of the Colville Tribes from the COVID-19 virus, the Colville Tribes announced today that it has directed staff to develop a plan to distribute need-based grants to individual tribal members. These grants are expected to be funded from the Coronavirus Relief Fund, as set forth in Title V of the CARES Act passed by Congress to provide relief to people suffering financial and other impacts of the virus.

Rodney Cawston, Chairman of the Colville Tribes, said, “The Colville Business Council fully understands the damage COVID-19 has inflicted on people across the Colville Reservation. While many of our efforts have focused on protecting public health and safety, the economic impacts are very real, and very serious, as well. Tribal members have been hit with many unforeseen expenses related to the virus. The Colville Tribes intends to bring relief to our people in a way that complies with the CARES Act and the applicable guidance and FAQs issued by the Department of Treasury.”

Please continue to slow the spread of COVID-19 by following public safety legislation passed by the Colville Tribes and state partners and wearing a mask in public.

For emergencies, call 9-1-1.
