The Colville Tribal Emergency Operations Center continues to work to prevent further spread of COVID-19 on the Colville Reservation.

To date, 12 cases of COVID-19 have been reported across the reservation, and medical professionals have released 10 of those individuals from isolation.

The most recent case was reported Friday.

We know COVID-19 continues in our communities and we ask for your help to prevent further spread.

Please remember to continue to practice social distancing. We have been able to keep our numbers low by taking preventative action.

Locally, all clinics on the Colville Reservation are testing daily.

If you have been in close contact with someone who has tested positive for COVID-19, or who is presumed positive, or if you have symptoms of concern the Colville Tribal Emergency Operations Center encourages you to contact your provider.

The CDC defines close contact as being in less than 6 feet from someone for a prolonged period of as little as 10 minutes.

If you are short of breath or have chest pain, you need to immediately call 911.

For emergencies, call 9-1-1.
