Kylie Story

From when I was younger, I knew that I was passionate about helping people but did not know which direction in college I wanted to take. I went to WSU with intents of going into Psychology so I could talk to others and help them. I quickly learned this maybe wasn't "my route" and didn't know what I wanted to do from there. I then took a break from college to find a job and figure what I was meant to do. This was a huge blessing for me that led me to the medical field as a nursing aide. I loved it and with the encouragement of loved ones, I decided to go back to school to further my education as a registered nurse. It was not something that I thought I could do as I had been out of college for a while but with the motivation to do what you love, you can do anything! Especially when so many people are supporting you the entire time and want to help you grow. I am forever grateful for all the support and experiences I endured along the way. "She believed she could, so she did." - Kylie Fuller, RN

Congratulations Kylie!
